The 2010 congressional battleground poll

National Survey Results

June 7-10, 2010
1200 Likely Voters

The survey

This survey was conducted by Greenberg Quinlan Rosner Research in conjunction with Public Opinion Strategies for National Public Radio and is the 30th survey in the NPR series.

These findings are based on a national telephone survey of 1200 likely voters conducted in the Congressional Battleground, designated as the 60 most competitive Democratic districts, divided into two tiers of 30 districts each, and the 10 most competitive Republican districts. The survey was conducted June 7-10, 2010.

- 445 Democratic Tier 1 (MoE: +/- 4.6 percentage points)
- 445 Democratic Tier 2 (MoE: +/- 4.6 percentage points)
- 310 Republican Tier (MoE: +/- 5.6 percentage points)

Voters skeptical of Obama economic policies

First Statement: President Obama's economic policies helped avert an even worse crisis, and are laying the foundation for our eventual economic recovery.

Second Statement: President Obama's economic policies have run up a record federal deficit while failing to end the recession or slow the record pace of job losses.

The midterm elections

Strong enthusiasm gap favors Republicans in Democratic districts

Please rate your level of enthusiasm about voting in this year's election for Congress on a scale from zero to ten, where zero means you're not at all enthusiastic about voting this year and ten means you're extremely enthusiastic about voting this year. You can use any number from zero to ten, the higher the number the more enthusiastic you are about voting this year.

Only a third would vote to re-elect in Democratic seats

As you may know, there will be an election for your Representative in Congress in November. Do you think you will definitely vote to re-elect (HOUSE INCUMBENT) to Congress, probably vote to re-elect (HOUSE INCUMBENT), probably vote for someone else, or definitely vote for someone else?

*Note: The 2008-elected incumbent was inserted as the Democratic Candidate for all Democratic-held districts with the generic "Republican Candidate" as the challenger, and as the Republican Candidate for all Republican-held districts with the generic "Democratic Candidate" as the challenger. In districts where the incumbent has announced s/he will not run for re-election, the generic identified was inserted.

Democratic tiers lean to voting against incumbent to get change

First Statement: I WON'T vote to reelect (HOUSE INCUMBENT) because we need new people who will fix Washington and get things done.

Second Statement: I WILL vote to reelect (HOUSE INCUMBENT) because (HE/SHE) is doing a good job and addressing issues that are important to us.

Voters in Republican districts split over voting to support Obama

First Statement: I WILL vote for a Democrat for Congress because at least he or she will work with President Obama to bring the change we need.

Second Statement: I WILL vote for (HOUSE INCUMBENT) because the Democratic Congress is just business as usual in Washington and more of the same tax and spend policies

Message debates

Potential candidate messages: overall theme for the election

(DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE) might say, "The partisan wars go on in Washington, but I'm focused on the battle for regular people. I voted for tax cuts for middle class families and small businesses and companies that create American jobs and on tough Wall Street reform. They voted to let Wall Street keep the money and do what they want, keep tax breaks for big corporations that send jobs overseas. They bailed out the banks, left the country in debt and voted against helping the unemployed in the resulting crisis. People are under the financial gun, and I vote against earmarks and to control spending."

(REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE) might say, "It's time for the Democrats to stop living in the past by blaming others for nearly ten percent unemployment and their runaway government spending. I am focused on the future. I was not part of the Republican Congress that spent too much, and my goal will be to stop the wasteful spending that has only gotten significantly worse with one party control of Washington. The Democrats are growing the size and scope of government, and it's hurting our economy. We need a check and balance to make sure Washington listens to the people, rather than just spend, spend, spend."

Republicans control theme when attacking Democrats on spending

Next I'm going to read you some pairs of statements about what the two candidates in your district might say on some key issues. After I read each pair, please tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE: "I'm focused on the battle for regular people...they bailed out the banks, left the country in debt and voted against helping the unemployed..."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE: "Democrats need to stop living in the past...my goal will be to stop the wasteful spending that has only gotten significantly worse with one party control..."

Potential candidate messages: the economy

(DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE) might say, "They left America with rising bailouts, deficits and unemployment. So, I'm fighting for small business and the middle class, not the big guys. I helped get the biggest tax cut ever for the middle class, extended benefits and health insurance for the unemployed and passed tax credits for small business and clean energy to create new jobs here. And I'll make sure Wall Street pays back every penny and that the government reduces the deficit each year. We can't go back to policies that hurt the middle class."

(REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE) might say, "The bailouts failed. The stimulus failed. And the health care bill will cost too much money. Unemployment has skyrocketed since the Democrats started running Washington. We cannot grow the economy by growing government. The best way to revive the economy and create jobs is to reduce government spending and encourage businesses to create jobs. We need to stop burdening our children and grandchildren with Washington's reckless overspending. My top priority will be to bring down the deficit and work to create jobs, not kill jobs."

Republican message on failure of bailouts and stimulus effective

Next I'm going to read you some pairs of statements about what the two candidates in your district might say on some key issues. After I read each pair, please tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE: "I'm fighting for small businesses and the middle class...I'll make sure Wall Street pays back every penny and the government reduces the deficit each year."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE: "The bailouts failed. The stimulus failed...my top priority will be to bring down the deficit and to work to create jobs, not kill jobs."

Potential candidate messages: health care

(DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE) might say, "Health reform isn't perfect, but it's a good start that puts an end to the worst abuses of the insurance companies. They want to change it so the insurance companies can deny people coverage because of pre-existing conditions and kick them off if they get sick. I'll keep working to make the law better by providing families and businesses more stable coverage and lower costs, not go back to the old way where insurance companies set the rules."

(REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE) might say, "At a cost of over one trillion dollars, the new health care law is increasing the cost of health care for middle class families, lowers the quality of care we receive, and will increase our taxes. This plan is little more than a government takeover of health care, giving government bureaucrats the power to make medical decisions. We need to change the new law by keeping the few good parts and significantly improving the rest."

Ineffective message in first Democratic tier, but near even in others

Next I'm going to read you some pairs of statements about what the two candidates in your district might say on some key issues. After I read each pair, please tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE: "Health care reform isn't perfect but it's a good start...not go back to the old way where insurance companies set the rules."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE: "At a cost of over one trillion dollars the new health care law is increasing the cost of health care for middle class families."

Potential candidate messages: Wall Street reform

(DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE) might say, "If Wall Street banks are healthy enough to pay outrageous executive bonuses then they are healthy enough to pay back every cent they got from taxpayers. I will institute tough reforms that hold the banks accountable and make sure that if a bank fails, the CEO is fired instead of getting a bonus and a bailout. That kind of greed cost too many jobs. But my opponent is standing with the Wall Street banks and their lobbyists and opposing real financial reform."

(REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE) might say, "I support fixing the way Wall Street operates, and believe Wall Street banks should pay back every cent of taxpayer money they were loaned. However, raising taxes on businesses will not create new jobs and will make our economy even worse. We need reforms that stop the abuses but don't go too far and hurt our economy. We need to allow our small businesses to borrow money so they can grow, and hire more employees to bring down unemployment."

Limited reform wins out over stronger regulation pushed by Democrats

Next I'm going to read you some pairs of statements about what the two candidates in your district might say on some key issues. After I read each pair, please tell me whether the FIRST statement or the SECOND statement comes closer to your own view, even if neither is exactly right.
